

CHARITY ACCOUNTING IS DIFFERENT FROM COMPANY ACCOUNTING FOR MANY REASONS. HERE'S ONE:-

As a charity you have committed to raising money that is to be spent on activities deemed to be for the public benefit. For that reason, you must be able to show that funds raised for a particular activity were actually spent on that same activity.

That's why it's not good enough to operate as a company with one central fund. You owe it to your donors and funders, who have trusted you with their money, and to the Charity Commission, who have trusted you to run a charity, to hold proper accounts of each funded activity.
